

World Book Day celebrated 20 years on 2nd March and we had a great time dressing up as our favourite characters. The best part of the day was when the adults in school chose their favourite stories to read to the children. We all got to choose which story we would like to hear. Mrs Woodlock read 'The Enormous Crocodile' by Roald Dahl and Miss Jones read an extract from 'The Hunger Games' by Suzanne Collins (years 4, 5 and 6 only). We loved all of the stories and some of us have already been out to the shops to buy the book to read at home.
